DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-8, drawn to a PAMP nucleic acid, and fragments thereof, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1.
- II. Claims 9-12, drawn to a PAMP polypeptide and fragments thereof, classified in class 530, subclass 350.
- III. Claims 13-20, 24, drawn to a method for diagnosing a prostate neoplastic condition, or metastatic prostate cancer, or predicting susceptibility to a prostate neoplastic condition, comprising hybridizing a sample with a PAMP nucleic acid probe, classified in class 435, subclass 6.
- IV. Claims 21-23, 25, drawn to a method for diagnosing a prostate neoplastic condition, or metastatic prostate cancer, or predicting susceptibility to a prostate neoplastic condition, comprising measuring a test expression level of PAMP polypeptide, classified in class 435, subclass 7.1.

In addition, upon the election of any one of groups III-IV, further election of the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention is required:

1) Diagnosing a prostate neoplastic condition, or 2) Diagnosing metastatic prostate cancer, or 3) Predicting susceptibility to a prostate neoplastic condition.

The inventions are distinct, each from each other because of the following reasons:

Inventions (I-II) and (III-IV) are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (M.P.E.P. 806.05 (h)). In this instant case, a polypeptide could be used for several purposes, e.g. for biochemical assay, for making antibodies, and for making an affinity column to purify its antibodies; a DNA sequence could be used for the detection of similar DNA or RNA sequences, for making an expression vector, and for producing its encoded protein.

The products of groups I-II are patentably distinct, because they are drawn to entirely different biochemicals, having different structures, biological properties and activities.

The methods of groups III-IV are distinct from each other because they differ at least in method steps, reagents and/or dosages, and/or schedules used, response variables and criteria for success.

The species 1) Diagnosing a prostate neoplastic condition, or 2) Diagnosing metastatic prostate cancer, or 3) Predicting susceptibility to a prostate neoplastic condition are distinct because of the following reasons: 1) primary prostate cancer cells have different properties than metastatic prostate cancer cells, and 2) predicting susceptibility to a disease does not necessarily mean that a disease is diagnosed.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reason given above and have acquired a separate status in the art, and because the searches for the groups are not co-extensive, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicants are required under 35 USC 121 to elect a single disclosed group for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted. Applicant is further advised that if Applicant elects any of groups III-IV, a response to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 USC 103 of the other invention.

Applicants are reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 C.F.R. 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a diligently-filed petition under 37 C.F.R. 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 C.F.R. 1.17(h).
